Application summary (up to 300 words):

Please describe what the program offers and why it will help you. What will you be more qualified to do or make after completing the program? Indicate any connections to your major or minor areas of study and explain specifically how it will extend or enrich your course of study at Colby and/or goals beyond Colby.

Preparation:

Please list academic courses you have taken at Colby or elsewhere (summer study or study away) that have prepared you for this program.

Other Relevant Preparation (optional):

Please list anything else you wish to share that has helped prepare you for this program.

Rationale (optional):

If you have not taken academic courses at Colby in your proposed area of study, please explain why you have chosen not to take advantage of existing opportunities on campus and why you are seeking support from the lab now. If the areas of study of this program are not represented at Colby, what have you done to develop skills that are relevant or adjacent to the skills you'd like to acquire?

Outcome (up to 300 words):

Upon your return to campus, how will your summer study impact your work directly? How will you continue to deepen your disciplinary engagement at Colby?

Faculty support:

A formal letter of recommendation from a faculty person is not necessary, but faculty support of a faculty member from within the discipline of the proposed program of study is necessary. For majors, this can be your academic advisor, for non-majors, you will need to obtain faculty support before submitting your application. Faculty may indicate conditions for their support, such as course enrollment upon your return to campus, or a report on summer study outcomes.

Faculty approver name and department:

Additional conditions stipulated by faculty supporter:

Financial support:

What support do you need to make it possible for you to participate in this program? Do you need support for the full tuition or partial support? Do you need travel support? Other support needed? Please note, the lab does not provide stipends or honoraria, but it can support expenses, registration, tuition, and supply fees. Financial need is considered in awards.

Other funding sources:

Have you applied (or will you apply) for other sources of funding on campus? Please list source and possible funding amount, if known.
